English is flat across every category. Russian is not, and the Russian bars fall with how fixed the phrase is:
«половина» is recovered by the large models, «четверть» barely, and «N минут X-ого» — the fully productive form — is never solved at any scale.